

JULY JONES

SONGWRITER / ARTIST

July Jones is an Eastern-European London-based artist and songwriter with a unique and global outlook on sexuality, politics and mental health.

Jones has already had huge success and recognition as a writer with credits including Girli, BTS, Sigala, 1991, 99 Souls, Nasty Cherry and many more.

After signing her first record deal at the age of 14 (Germany) following explosive success on YouTube, in 2015, she turned down a scholarship to Berklee College of Music in Boston to pursue a career as an artist in the UK. Inspired by artists such as FKA Twigs, Madonna, Banks, Charlie XCX, Halsey, or Lorde, Jones is fast becoming one of the most recognisable names to represent the new generations of super talented, young artists emerging from the UK.

Her songs have a dark-pop feel and often include electronic elements. In the coming months, Jones is planning to release more music, following her latest single '2020 Girls'. She is a versatile songwriter, who makes music with the aim of pushing her artistry forwards at all times.
